

CAS411 Conn Eb Alto Saxophone

Building on 150 years of history, Conn opens a new era of saxophones designed and made for today's saxophonist. Immediately recognizable with their lightweight, vintage style key guards and neck octave key, the new Conn saxophones also stand out with strong construction, modern ergonomics, and the classic American saxophone sound: rich, free-blowing, and powerful.

Features

Tailored for the advancing saxophonist, the CAS411 embodies the responsive, free-blowing sound of vintage American saxophones with superb intonation and modern ergonomics. Cold-forged brass keys are secured with post-to-body construction, finely balanced by blue steel springs, and carefully fitted with premium Pisoni pads.

Sound projects freely with a large bell that is handsomely hand-engraved in the classic Conn saxophone style. Conn's new generative bell brace is engineered to maximize resonance while minimizing weight, and the new vintage wire key guards offer a strong yet lightweight design.

Featuring a high F# key and a tilting spatula mechanism, the CAS411 is protected in a sturdy case and includes all the accessories you need to excel in your musical journey with a Conn saxophone.
